Town Sees Dream Come True

Review Of Town Minutes Proves Entertaining For Banquet Guests

One of the most entertaining moments of the banquet marking the official opening of the Lac la Biche gas system came when Mayor Michael Maccagno reviewed the history of the town.

Going through minutes dating back to the date of incorporation as a village in July, 1911, he picked out significant highlights.

He mentioned the twenties, when laborers recevied 25 cents an hour, the police constable $30 a month and the town secretary was paid $300 a year. Choice items out of past town minutes included the notation to "chop down a lamp post" that was no longer needed.

A sample of events by years shows 1932 as the year council set a mill rate of 32, as compared with today's mill rate of 19. The year 1935 was marked by street lighting. In 1936 the mill rate dropped to 30 and the Chamber was asking (and still is) for a road to Vilna. Mention was made of the untimely death of George Pappas, who left his estate to the school.

In 1937 Michael Hamar became mayor and the mill rate then was 35. A motion was made again to ask for the erection of the Alberta Wheat Pool elevator. In 1938 when Mr. Dumas was mayor, work on the dock was started.

The audience enjoyed a laugh when it was noted that in 1939 Mike Hamar moved that only two cows per family be allowed to run at large.

In 1944 it was decided by council that application for a restaurant be refused "as there is no need for another restaurant in town."

Praise was given Dr. William Cadzow for his efforts during the period from 1948 to 1950 in acquiring sewer and water. It was noted that Dr. Cadzow held office for six consecutive years, equalling the record set earlier by Mayor Dumas.

In 1951, the village was incorporated into a town and Mayor L. G. Hall finalized the water works. Extended telephone service was proposed by Social Credit MLA Harry Lobay.

The York Hotel was given the go ahead to build in 1953 and 24-hour telephone service went into operation. Streets and sidewalks were a big item in 1954 and the provincial building was completed.

During 1956 and 1957 extensions were made for sewer and water, and the provincial government was asked for a dam on Lac la Biche river and for a causeway to be built. Mercury vapor lights were installed and garbage collection started. The post office was built.

And the year 1958 saw gas discovered in November, the elevator requested in 1927 was finally built and golf enthusiast Dr. Bouvier saw his project, a nine-hole golf course, get underway.

PREMIER VISITS SCHOOL CHILDREN

One happy event of the Lac la Biche gas turn-on celebration was the mass meeting of 300 school children in the elementary school Monday afternoon, despite it being a civic holiday.

Premier Manning and Hon. E. W. Hinman expressed their delight at having the opportunity of meeting the children.

It was a red letter day for public and high school pupils who were able to shake the premier's hand before receiving an ice cream cone on the way home.

The guests of honor and councillors were guests of the teaching staff at a tea held afterwards.

Mr. Hinman, a former school teacher and superintendent, told the girls and boys that he hoped they would really appreciate the efforts made by the mayor and council in bringing gas to the town.

He drew a chuckle from his young audience by saying that the time they save by using gas, in not going after wood or coal, would mean they could devote more time to homework.

No Elections For Lac La Biche

LAC LA BICHE — As only two nominations were received for the position of councillor for the town an election will not be necessary. Nominations were filed for Dr. D. D. Bouvier and Ernie Shanks and they were declared elected by acclamation. It is a return engagement for Mr. Shanks & Dr. Bouvier will replace Harry Lobay.

Nominated for the school board were Hervey Marchildon, E. G. Dobson and Steve Hamar and they were elected by acclamation each one returning to the post previously held on the board.

Lac la Biche

Mrs. Russel Lacusta and children left at the end of the week for Fort Nelson where they will join Mr. Lacusta and make their home. Russell is a cook on the DEW Line at Fort Nelson.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Gagnon and son recently arrived from Edmonton and have taken up residence in the living quarters at the bakery. Mr. Gagnon has had many years of experience as a baker and has taken over those duties at Patry's Bakery.

Recent guests at the home of Mrs. Mary Dedeluk were her son Morris and his wife from New Westminster, B.C. The last time the mother and son had had a visit together was in 1954.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Bouvier and Kathleen Duban motored to Cold Lake on Sunday to visit Iris Duban who is teaching in the High School in Cold Lake this year.

Mayor Maccagno Tosses, Catches Bouquets As 400 Guests Look On

By Martha Fraser and Ken Larson

LAC LA BICHE — A man who has spent hours too numerous to number on seeing through the mammoth task of providing this town with its publicly-owned natural gas system, saw his dream come true Monday night.

Michael Maccagno, mayor, and Liberal MLA for the Lac la Biche constituency, not only reaped his share of public plaudits for his devoted efforts during the past three years, but handed out bouquets to mayors and councillors right back to 1919 when V. Limoges headed up the village council.

Mr. Maccagno was profuse in his appreciation of the interest and co-operation shown by Premier Manning, provincial treasurer E. W. Hinman, and other members of the provincial government.

Addressing an audience at the "flare on" banquet held in the Memorial Hall Monday night, Mr. Maccagno reviewed the history of the town, noting progress made through each year and naming the men on council who had a hand then in the affairs of the community.

On behalf of the town he presented past mayors with a combination oil derrick and lighter to mark the occasion. As a gesture of appreciation for councillors who burned the midnight oil with him on many occasions during the past few years, he presented identical gifts.

A gift of a barometer was presented Premier Manning, with Mr. Maccagno making the humorous comments that when the pointer showed rain, Mr. Manning was to think of the abnormally high level of the lake, and when it pointed to dry, the premier was to remember the dusty roads. Mr. Manning quipped that "right now it points to 'change.'"

Mr. Hinman received a silver letter opener. Mr. Maccagno offered the suggestion that the provincial treasurer would certainly need it as there would likely be many letters from Lac la Biche asking for more money. The cabinet minister replied that if he received too many

Newsman Gets Dunking While Duck Hunting

Ernie Coutney, who was busy taking color movies with his new zoom-lens 8 mm camera at the Lac la Biche gas celebration banquet, was "hunting" host earlier to a number of newsmen from Edmonton. Ernie took a carfull to bag several ducks. Morley Grundburg, CFRN-TV news announcer, got a dunking when he stepped in a hole while wading in deep water. He managed to keep his gun dry, which his companions said was the duty of any good hunter.

Volunteer Brigade Extinguishes Fire

LAC LA BICHE—Residents of the town were awakened by the fire alarm shortly before 3 a.m. Friday morning of last week.

In a short itme the entire volunteer fire brigade was at the scene of the fire, a small two-room house on the property of Edward Ferris. No one appeared to have been in the house at the time of the fire for the occupant, George Cardinal, was away fishing and his wife was in an Edmonton hospital. However the firemen kept constant watch on the building until the fire was out and the smoke cleared away.

A thorough search of the premises indicaetd that the house was unoccupied at the time the fire broke out.

Vote Was 171-17 In Favor Owning Gas System; Finance With Bonds

The celebration marking the opening of the gas system at Lac La Biche climaxed two years of planning and work.

After gas was discovered near the town, residents had to decide whether they would grant a franchise to a commercial utility company or go ahead and install their own system.

It came to a vote earlier this year and residents cast their ballots 171 to 17 in favor of making it a municipally-owned utility.

Under legislation passed this year, the system was financed through the sale of bonds carrying 7½ per cent interest. The province offered to buy half of them, the remainder were quickly snapped up by citizens of the town.

The advantages are twofold: the profit on the investment stays at home, and the town hopes to be able to hold the line on taxes through revenue gained from the gas system.

On top of that the average homeowner is expected to save as much as 40 per cent on fuel bills.

HON. E. W. HINMAN

PROVINCIAL TREASURER SAYS:

Govt. Was Waiting For Some Community To Build Own System

An explanation as to why the Lac La Biche experiment was of interest to the province and to other municipalities, was given by Hon. E. W. Hinman, provincial treasurer, at the "flare-on" banquet, Sept. 26.

Mr. Hinman said natural gas is a public utility and as such it is a field where there is no real competitive enterprise. The Lac la Biche project would provide some basis for comparison.

For some time, he said, the government has wanted to see some community build its own gas utility system. By taking advantage of new legislation which makes it possible, Lac la Biche is a leader, he said.

Mr. Hinman said the addition of gas to the community is important because the town now has everything to make living gracious and comfortable. At the same time, he said, improvements such as gas installation create more leisure time and place upon the people a responsibility to use that time wisely.

The treasurer also said installation of a town-owned gas system is an example of people turning over to their elected government a responsibility which once belonged to the individual.

In earlier days each individual was responsible for cutting kindling and firewood. However, in association people can do things they are unable to do alone, but they must be prepared to pay for what they receive.

"If you analyze what you get for your taxes, I don't think you'll complain," he said.

THE Homemaker

By BERTHA M. McCUTCHEON

The home economics course is designed to give training in homemaking. Such a purpose appears to be entirely justified in view of the obvious value that it will have for most young women. Much of the training is applicable to numerous forms of employment that might be obtained after graduation but there is no attempt to provide specific training for any particular job.

E. McCutcheon

The homemaking subjects include sewing, clothing selection, textiles, cooking, nutrition, handicrafts, laundering, home nursing and home management. Agricultural subjects such as horticulture, dairying and poultry with special emphasis on the relation of the subject matter to homemakers' interests are also available.

General education and social training is commonly recognized as a deficiency in the educational background of many students. Consequently, some considerable class time is devoted to public speaking, community organization and social relations. The fact that rural young people generally lack the opportunity to mingle with large numbers of others of about their own ages and to gain social experience and confidence leads school authorities to place such emphasis on the value of incidental training resulting from living in the school dormitory and participating in a wide range of students activities under the supervision of a carefully selected staff of instructors.

Home graduates have continued on for further training in nursing and teaching and in home economics at the university where certification from the schools of agriculture has assisted them to meet the entrance requirements and to obtain employment advantages later. In this connection, it should be noted that the department of education will grant to our graduates a total of 18 credits towards a high school diploma. This means that students who properly plan their high school programme can replace a fourth year in high school with a term at the school of agriculture and so obtain a high school diploma in addition to a diploma of graduation from the school of agriculture.

Other graduates have found employment in hospitals, retail stores, banks, business offices, dressmakers' shops and with such firms as the Singer Sewing Machine Company, Canada Packers and department stores where their special training in particular subjects of the home economics course is highly useful.

COSTS

Tuition is free but board and room charges, costs of classroom materials and incidental expenses, with a reasonable allowance for pocket money, amount to a total cost of approx. $300 for the full course. There is an opportunity for a limited number of girls to earn some money in return for part time work in the school dining room.

Scholarships, bursaries and loans are available to deserving students requiring financial assistance.

Calendars and application forms are available from your district home economist.

Constituency Convener Addresses Women's Institute On New Policies

LAC LA BICHE — The September meeting of the Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. H. Marchildon with Mrs. F. C. Boulton, constituency convener, present.

The regular business meeting was held. The WI arranged to provide flowers for the tables at the banquet in honor of the gas opening ceremonies.

The librarian reported over 400 books were added during the summer. Library fines have been reduced to 5 cents a book per week with the new ruling that no more books may be taken out by the overdue member until the fine has been paid.

Mrs. McMillan's report of the constituency conference was read by Mrs. Coast in Mrs. McMillan's absence. It was a most interesting report and was much appreciated by those present.

Mrs. Boulton then spoke regarding WI work and some new policies that had been decided upon at the annual convention this spring.

After the meeting was adjourned lunch was served by Mrs. Marchildon and assistants. Mrs. Vincent, though unable to attend, was Mrs. Marchildon's co-hostess.

The next meeting will be held Oct. 25 at the home of Mrs. H. Linnell.

PREMIER TURNS ON GAS:

Lac La Biche Leads Alberta With Town-Owned System

LAC LA BICHE — History was made Sept. 26 as Premier Manning turned on the town's publicly-owned gas system, the first of its kind in Alberta under new legislation passed earlier this year.

PREMIER E. C. MANNING

He said other Alberta communities would be able to measure the success of this venture against that of other communities where public utilities companies own and operate the natural gas systems.

The premier reitered the observations of Hon. E. W. Hinman, provincial treasurer, who said that the $210,000 project, of which $100,000 was invested by Lac la Biche people and other interested Albertans was a sound investment.

The unity of spirit shown by the town council spearheaded by Michael Maccagno, mayor of the town, and Liberal MLA for the constituency, was a key factor in the success of the project, said Mr. Manning.

Lac la Biche was fortunate, he said, in having a supply of gas at hand, while some Alberta communities even now find this kind of project economically unfeasible because of the cost of hooking up to major gas lines.

The town was able to purchase gas from four wells located several miles to the east by Sage Oil Co. of Edmonton, under President Blake Sage in November, 1958.

The premier touched briefly on world affairs, suggesting that if people had as much interest in provincial, national and international happenings, as they do in local projects such as the town's gas system, many of our problems would have been solved. He recalled 15 years ago following World War II, when the so-called remaining free world was united in a unity of purpose to deliver mankind from the threat of tyrany.

Where has it gone? he asked. If the same spirit had prevailed through these past 15 years, you wouldn't have the tension-riddled sessions the United Nations is facing this very night, he concluded.

Gigantic Catering Job Handled By Capable Lac La Biche Ladies

As evidenced on Monday evening at the opening ceremonies of the turning on of the new gas system in this town the ladies of Lac la Biche need take no back seat to anyone, anywhere, when it comes to catering to large crowds. Four hundred guests enjoyed a delicious turkey dinner in the Memorial Hall here.

This vast catering job was made possible only through the fine co-operation in planning and work of the ladies' groups in the town.

Mrs. Steve Hamar was general convenor. Organizations taking part were, in the preparing and serving: Greek Catholic Ladies, headed by Mrs. J. Onufruw; Greek Orthodox L.A., whose president is Mrs. G. Homeniuk; St. Andrew's WA, with Mrs. W. E. Coast as president; United Church LA, of which Mrs. Steve Hamar is president; Saint Catherines LA assisted with the preparation of the food, Mrs. J. Bouvier is the leader of this organization.

One large item which was very happily taken care of was the preparing of large vats of mashed potatoes by the Sisters of St. Catherines.

Sixteen 25-pound turkeys were prepared and cooked in private homes. Jellied salads were also home-prepared. Beautiful and tasty cakes were donated by ladies of the town. Dinner rolls were donated by McGavin's Ltd. The town supplied the food but it was left to the ladies to prepare and serve the 400 guests.

In charge of the kitchen workers was Mrs. W. Switzer, and assisting her were: Mrs. E. Woynarowich, Mrs. C. Tratch, Mrs. P. Shipka, Mrs. H. Senetza, Mrs. L. Bartman, Mrs. J. Kozak, Mrs. W. Duban, Mrs. J. Beniuk, Mrs. Bezpolko, Mrs. H. McCormick and Mrs. J. Zalusny.

Waitresses, pretty in white aprons and caps, although kept busy, did a marvelous job. Mrs. R. Lacusta was in charge and her helpers were: Mesdames P. Bouvier, J. Olstad, M. Coates, L. Bartman, W. Oshanyk, J. Onufruw, J. Konowalchuk and the Misses Carol Courtney, Sally Onufruw, Donna Homac, Diane Cadzow, Betty Williams, Anita Senetza, Loy McCullough, Reta Maccagno, Louise Badry, Bonny Mastaler Josephine Fornare, Lucille L'Heureux, Cecile Meardi, Ida Schaffer and Betty Meyers.

A very fine gesture from a neighboring town was the donation of carnations from the Athabasca Funeral Home, while other flowers were donated and arranged very tastefully on the tables by the local Women's Institute.

Dishes were loaned by Greek Orthodox and Saint Catherines Ladies Auxiliaries. Chairs also were loaned by Saint Catherines.

It is certainly a great credit to the ladies of Lac la Biche to undertake to such a successful end this gigantic catering event.

Councilman Ernie Shanks represented the town council in the overall planning.

THE SAGE OIL STORY:

Oil Company Drills Gas Wells In Spite Of Pessimistic Report

By Gene Hadley

On June 17, 1958, Sage Oil Company purchased a mineral lease on 18,819 acres of land in the Lac la Biche area. The company was speculating on a gas supply for the towns in the surrounding area and hoping to find sufficient gas to eventually pipe it to the city of Edmonton. Within four months of such a purchase the government requires the company to provide an evaluation report or drill a well on the lease. Sage had an evaluation report made which read: "It would be possible to obtain gas from any one of the potential horizons, but from the drilling done to date in the area there is no evidence of a proven supply on the southern portion of parcel 119, (area of Lac la Biche town).

Blake Sage, manager of Sage Oil, had studied the contours and geographical aspects of the country at Lac la Biche and in spite of the pessimistic reports felt sure that gas could be found in the area. Mr. Sage, who had been in the oil business for 23 years, had noticed that Lac la Biche drained into the Arctic ocean and nearby Beaver lake drained into the Atlantic ocean, this proved that this was the height of land over a large area. At one time the lakes must have been joined together forming a natural reef or gas trap. As the area is covered with a gravel bed 500 feet deep seismograph soundings are almost useless so the only way to prove Mr. Sage's theories was to drill a well.

The company was now faced with the difficult task of obtaining financial backing. Canadian capital was not available as the venture appeared to be a poor risk. Mr. Sage went to London, England and there he found A. J. Whitehead Ltd. was willing to put capital in his company and the drilling operations began.

The first well was spudded in on Nov. 7, 1958 and 617 feet of gravel was drilled and a seven inch surface pipe was cemented in from top to bottom. The first gas zone was found at 1,005 ft. and the second zone at 1,538 ft. The casing was run to a total depth of 1,572 ft. It was tested by Edmonton Petroleum Engineers and the open flow was 4.9 million cubic feet per day.

The government demands that a company be able to show sufficient reserves before entering into an agreement to serve a town with natural gas and so the second well was spudded in on Nov. 21, 1958 and was tested on Nov. 28. This well too had two gas zones and the open flow was 8.5 million cubic feet per day.

While the rigs were in the area the company decided to drill a third well, this one was completed on Dec. 10 and was brought in in the night when the temperature was 30 below zero. The open flow of this well was 2.2 million cubic feet per day. Sage Oil now had a proven reserve to serve the town of Lac la Biche for 40 years. A fourth well was drilled later and with it producing Sage Oil made themselves a record of four wildcat wells without a failure.

The first well was drilled on the land of Felix Rizzoli, the second on his brother, Ben's land and the third on the farm of their sister Mrs. Walberg. The family had been raised on the land little guessing that a fortune lay below them.

All the wells were drilled by Tri-City Drilling. The firm, hired by Sage Oil, had three crews in the area.

Mitchel and Associates, petroleum geologists and engineers, Edmonton, were hired as consultants after the first well was drilled.

With the success of the drilling by Sage Oil competition for the Lac la Biche supply became keen. The prime purpose of Sage drilling in the area was to provide the town with gas. Mr. Sage felt his investors had the right to collect on their capital as soon as possible and so began to investigate the piping of gas to Edmonton.

As previous correspondence with the council of Lac la Biche had indicated they were interested in the company Mr. Sage wrote to them informing them of his planned action. Through MLA Mike Maccagno this letter got to the floor of the legislature and the action that followed resulted in Lac la Biche being he first town in Alberta to take advantage of new government legislation allowing towns to sell debentures based on revenue from utilities with government itself purchasing one-half the shares and the town of Lac la Biche the remaining shares.

Once the town had the necessary financial backing, they accepted the gas supply offered by Sage Oil and the lines were built so that on Sept. 26 Premier E. C. Manning turned on the valve that sent the gas into the lines and to the consumers of the town.

No argument is answered by an epithet.

Chartered Plane Carries Officials, Guests To Opening

A chartered plane landed at the Lac la Biche airport late on the afternoon of Sept. 26 carrying officials and guests of Sage Oil Company to the official opening ceremonies of the Lac la Biche Gas Distribution System.

Those on the plane were: A. J. Whitehead, London, England, Director Sage Oil Company; B. A. Sage, Director and General Manager Sage Oil Company; George McNeill, Director Sage Oil Company; Lloyd Gilmour, Publisher; W. Smith, Commercial Manager (Edmonton area) Calgary Power; T. W. Pue, President and Publisher of Sun Publishing Co. and Mrs. Pue; Fred Larson, vice-president, Canada Industrial Gas; Bill Rutherford, Provincial Superintendent of Pipe Lines; A. J. Patrick, Director of Mineral Rights; W. MacIntosh, Manager, Toronto Dominion Bank; H. C. Bell, Prospector and P .Chemago, Inspector Toronto Dominion Bank.

The crew of the Pacific Western Airlines plane was headed by Capt. J. Miles. R. Lundberg was the first officer and Miss M. McNabb the stewardess. All are Edmonton residents. The passengers were delighted with the attractiveness of the stewardess and remarked of the courteous and co-operative attention given to them by the entire crew.

A second chartered plane landed in Lac la Biche that day carrying a party from Banister Construction Ltd. headed by president Ronald Banister.

Sage Oil is the company that discovered the gas field from which the town will draw its supply. Banister Construction Ltd. installed the gas system in the town.

BLAKE SAGE, director and manager of Sage Oil Company, and A. J. Whitehead, of London, England, who. with his associates, gave the financial backing for the drilling of the gas wells at Lac la Biche. These are the men behind the scene daring, initiative and capital played a large part in the supplying of gas to the town of Lac la Biche.

Darlene Lozinski Feted At Party

HYLO — Girls and boys enjoyed a birthday party which was held in honor of Darlene Lozinski who was six years old on Saturday, Sept. 17.

After many games were played and popcorn eaten, the children gathered for lunch and the singing of "Happy Birthday" as Darlene blew out the six varied colored candles on her beautiful yellow-iced angel cake.

Darlene then unwrapped her pretty gifts and was nearly overcome with delight. She then thanked everyone for the gifts and for coming to her birthday party.

British Capital Used To Finance Gas Wells for Lac la Biche Supply

A. J. Whitehead of London, Eng., and his associates provided the financial backing to Sage Oil Company to enable them to drill the gas wells in the Lac la Biche area to supply gas to residents of the town Mr. Whitehead put $100,000 in this project and showed his interest in the further development of Sage Oil by investing a great deal more capital for future expansion.

Mr. Whitehead was born in London, and went to school there and at the age of 13 years went to work in an engineering shop. In 1932 he went into industrial financing on his own and, except for the war years, has operated his company ever since. The owner of A. J. Whitehead Ltd., London, Mr. Whitehead today is financing 200 industrial companies in England and South Africa. Sage Oil Co. is his only interest in Canada.

Mr. Witehead made a trip across Canada in 1954 by train but did not really get to know the country until he returned in 1957 to commence his business operations with Sage Oil and since then he has been back about twice a year.

Mr. Whitehead admits he will be pleased when he is no longer needed here, and will not have to make these regular visits to Canada.

When questioned as to his opinion of the industrial growth of Canada, Mr. Whitehead said he was not familiar with the whole country but for Alberta and western Canada he expected they were in of the biggest financial boom in their history with the distribution of their gas potential to the United States. Mr. Whitehead said he would like to see the terrific load of red tape lifted or at least simplified as it is, in his opinion, holding back the real development of the great resources of the west.

As there is such a large investment of British Capital in Sage Oil the company is listed in the Financial Times with other large Canadian industries.

Town Sees Dream Come To Reality

requests he might have to sharpen the point to keep Mr. Maccagno in line.

Floyd MacMillan, chairman of the commitete in charge of celebrations which includes councillors Ernie Shanks and Eli Tkachuk, was master of ceremonies. He presented Mr. Maccagno with a silver pair of scissors, which were also to be used to cut the ribbon. Mr. Maccagno said they would be kept in the town office for similar occasions, but for the time handed them to his wife who had the honor of cutting the ribbon.

Rev. J. E. McGrane, former parish priest, now at Calmar and Devon, asked the blessing. Following the toast to the Queen, deputy mayor Lionel Vincent addressed the banquet guests:

"Tonight marks an occasion for which I've waited a long time. It marks the culmination of all our plans, efforts and hopes. It signifies the opening of a new era and the closing of the old. Mr. Vincent congratulated Mayor Maccagno on being the power behind all the planning which ended to the benefit of all."

Councillor Ernie Shanks said, he too, was proud to see the fulfillment of plans finally completed.

Secretary Fred Creighton spoke of the wonderful unity of the people of Lac la Biche during the past two years that this project has been worked on.

Ron Banister, manager of Banister Construction which installed the gas system, congratulated the townspeople, while engineer Jack Flavan said the "gas system is safe and ready for use."

Councillor Tkachuk said the first step made in obtaining natural gas came during the time Steve Hamar was mayor. Only the co-operation of the ratepayers and the assistance of provincial officials had made it possible for Lac la Biche to obtain the franchise itself.

Councillor Harry Lobay added that it was a happy coincidence that ac la Biche could celebrate the 25th anniversary of the provincial government with the natural gas coming to town.

Mr. Lobay noted that the gas not only serves the town, but the rural area as well.

All organizations who had assisted in the opening were thanked.

Mayor Maccagno said the happiest time was when the ratepayers endorsed the gas system as outlined by council by unanimous vote. He said he was extremely proud to have had the council behind him so solidly during the past two years.

"Lac la Biche is a small town," he said, "but, oh so big in spirit. We want to send our children away to be educated, but we want them back to give us the benefit of their training."

who, under the supervision of Mrs.

He thanked the ladies of the town Steve Hamar, looked after arrangements for the supper.

When all tributes had been made at the Hall, the crowd moved to the town ball park for the ribbon-cutting ceremony.

Mrs. Maccagno cut the ribbon, while Mr. Manning turned on the gas and Mr. Hinman lit the flare. A beautiful display of fireworks was supervised by the volunteer fire brigade. At this time, the town's band was on hand to play several selections. Small flags decorated the specially constructed stand on which the dignitaries carried out their final duties.

Special guests included Mayor Hunter and party from Athabasca; Mayor Perkins from Grande Prairie; Mayor of St. Paul; and Rev. and Mrs. Green, formerly of Lac la Biche, and now of Fairview; Blake Sage of Sage Oil and party; Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Pue of Sun Publishing Co. Ltd., Edmonton; Mayor Peter Andruski of Boyle and party, and a host of others. A telegram was read from Stan Powers, former district agriculturist for Lac la Biche.

Introduced were Earl Christianson and his wife. Earl will be manager of the town's gas utility system.

A free public dance followed in the Hall with music supplied by The Harmony Kids of Edmonton.
